The Injunction Case at Lisbon Being Bitterly Contested.

Business in This State Employs 10,000 Men And $60,000,000 Capital-Universal Practice to Let Salt Water Run Into Streams.

Lisbon, November 14,-(Special.)-The hearing in the oil well injunction case in which the Salem Iron company CALLS FOR $10,000 of Lectonia is plaintiff against H. H. Hyland et al was still in progress when court adjourned last evening and continued when court convened at

> The testimony adduced by the plaintiff was largely from expert witnesses as to the quantity of salt and other ingredients shown by an analysis of samples of salt water from the oil well and as to its effects on boilers. The paintiff's petition charges that there is no likelihood of an increased production of oil from the well complained of, and that there is small probability of a paying oil field in the vicinity. The testimony brought out in the defense was mainly in refutation of these charges. Witnesses for the defense were still being examined when court adjourned last evening.

The defendant, H. H. Hyland, of

Pittsburg, was on the witness stand about an hour. Mr. Hyland says he has been in the oil business for 38 years and has operated in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee and Alabama. He said he chanced to hear of a well being drilled on the Gongaware farm by the Obio Knob Oil company of Columbiana and later abandoned and he decided to prospect by pumping the well. Mr. Hyland said that in his experience he had known wells to be pumped 90 days without a sign of oil and then develop all at once into producers of 300 barrels daily. He took charge of the well on the Gongaware farm on June 10 last and by July 16 it was producing two barrels daily. On the latter date the well was shot with results that gave evidence of a large pool in the vicinity, the last explosion sending a column was thrown violently against the seats of oil eight inches in diameter to the op of the derrick. Pumping was continued with the proportion of oil gradwas laid to the Columbiana station. ping the pumping went into effect the proportion of oil in the stream from the well was rapidly increasing, while the amount of salt water was decreasing, and that the well was then producing about 30 barrels every 24 hours. Witness said he had already invested a large amount of money in has every reason to believe will be a rich producing territory.

PROBLEMS FOR THE TAXPAYERS

With the dawn of each succeeding anticipations are being withered daily. day the great wheels of justice grind out undeniable proof of loose methods n conducting the city's financial business during the past decade, and there is every reason to believe that those now in power are in the same old rut, with greater embarrassment ahead. Contrary to the laws under which they should have operated, former councils cast the city into depths from which it will not recover in many years. Refusing to profit by the failure of their forerunners, the present councilmanic body is heaping coals of fire on the burning embers of destruc-

In the past, as is well known, when propositions involving thousands of dollars faced a council with no money at its command to liquidate them, some member would jump to his feet was spent in disposing of protests and and with the flourish of a man capable to deal in millions, and make a motion that the city offer its obligations to a certain monetary institution being that it should be obtained, no difference what the cost would be. A second to the motion would be heard simultaneously and the proposition would be disposed of. Such action was known to every taxpayer in the city who was interested enough to vatch the plays of council, and all thought when the present body as sumed the power of legislation mat ters would be changed. Their fond

As evidence of the statement, an explanation is asked where the $93,000 worth of bonds issued by the present council to pay off outstanding indebtedness and overdrafts has gone. The books show that $42,980.34 went into the hands of the sinking fund commission: $30,000 into the hands of the Potters' National bank and $10,000 into the hands of the First National bank. But what has been done with the remaining $9,944.66? It has been used, at least a portion of it, to meet the expense of certain improvements; but what authority, it is asked, had the body to use the money for that purpose when the bonds were issued for overdrafts and outstanding indebtedness for which the money can only be legally used?

According to the accepted purport of the bond issue every debt coming under the head of general deficiencies should have been wiped out so far as possible. This, it is very evident, has not been done. There remains $12,-200 to be paid, the most of which could have been blotted out had the $9,944.66 been applied to it. The figures are taken from the addition of the $1,200 borrowed for the library; $1,000 in notes held by the Citizens National bank and $10,000 which must be placed on the general tax duplfcate as a result of the Pennsylvania avenue improvement. ORDERS OF COUNCIL

Board of Service Refuses to Act ahead. Contrary to the laws under Until the Money Is in Sight.

A REQUEST TURNED DOWN

After an interim of two weeks the members of the board of public service got into regular session last evening and held the longest meeting in their history. As usual the time was spent in disposing of protests and and with the flourish of a man capaordering the payment of a batch of City Auditor Davidson presented a number of protests of council, among of the board relative to compelling Supt. Healy to repair the crossings in the city over which the East Liverpool street railway operates. Council would be disposed of. Such action informed the board that the repairing asked for an explanation regarding it. A peep at the minutes of the board showed that it had ordered Supt. Healy to have the crossings placed in a safe condition. After some discussion a motion was passed to notify council that the board will again or der Mr. Healy to do the work and it will have the city solicitor commence legal proceedings against him if he does not honor the demand.

George C. Murphy appeared before the board and asked that the water four inch pipe and that as he wants the money for the work, and to be reimbursed in water rent was accepted was crdered to lay the new main.

The board members stated that in the plan of ordering no work whatever done when there is no money in the the requests made by council that others be repaired were referred back to that body awaiting a reply to the money on hands to do the work. The engineer was instructed to locate the grade line on the upper end of Bradshaw avenue for a gentleman Three tanks with a capacity of 250 who wishes to lay some curbing. The engineer was also instructed to give Mr. Galm, of Hailes street, the curb line in front of his residence. He stated that the corner of his house and his fence had been demolished owing to the teamsters showing no regard for the street lines, some of them driving on the sidewalks. There are no pavements at this particular point and Mr Galm was told that the only remedy would be to lay curbing in front of his property and then he can sue

With the dawn of each succeeding anticipations are being withered daily. day the great wheels of justice grind out undeniable proof of loose methods in conducting the city's financial busness during the past decade, and there is every reason to believe that those now in power are in the same old rut, with greater embarrassment which they should have operated, former councils cast the city into depths from which it will not recover in many years. Refusing to profit by the failure of their forerunners, the present councilmanic body is heaping coals of fire on the burning embers of destruc-

In the past, as is well known, when propositions involving thousands of dollars faced a council with no money at its command to liquidate them, some member would jump to his feet ble to deal in millions, and make a motion that the city offer its obligations to a certain monetary institution for the amount, the mutual agreement which was relative to the non-action being that it should be obtained, no difference what the cost would be. A second to the motion would be heard simultaneously and the proposition was known to every taxpayer in the should be attended to at once and city who was interested enough to watch the plays of council, and all hought when the present body assumed the power of legislation matters would be changed. Their fond

As evidence of the statement, an explanation is asked where the $93,000 worth of bonds issued by the present council to pay off outstanding indebtedness and overdrafts has gone. The books show that $42,980.34 went into the hands of the sinking fund commission: $30,000 into the hands of the Potters' National bank and $10,000 into the hands of the First National bank. But what has been done with the remaining $9,944.66? It has been used, at least a portion of it, to meet the expense of certain improvements; but what authority, it is asked, had the body to use the money for that purpose when the bonds were issued for overdrafts and outstanding indebtedness for which the money can only be legally used?

According to the accepted purport of the bond issue every debt coming under the head of general deficiencies should have been wiped out so far as possible. This, it is very evident, has not been done. There remains $12,-200 to be paid, the most of which could have been blotted out had the $9,944.66 been applied to it. The figures are taken from the addition of the $1,200 borrowed for the library; $1,000 in notes held by the Citizens' National bank and $10,000 which must be placed on the general tax duplfcate as a result of the Pennsylvania avenue improvement. Smallpox, Typhoid Fever or Cholera, what a cyclone of excitement and horror would sweep over the land. What a rush to get away from it, and what a mighty effort would be made to stamp it out.

Yet CATARRH is worse than either of them. They do their work quick and it is over; while Catarrh hangs on forever and leads to sure death in some form unless the germs are destroyed and driven from the system. These germs or microbes entrench themselves in the deep and tortuous passages of the head. Brazilian Balm boldly attacks them in their stronghold and compels a surrender of the last microbe. Urgency

Something must be done to arrest this rapidly spreading scourge and done quickly. Each individual must wake up, each community must wake up, the Nation must wake up and take prompt action to stay the progress of the plague. The one remedy that has been found able to cope with this putrid disease and stay its ravages is Brazilian Balm. For 15 years its march has been a march of triumph. Its cures are permanent and are numbered by the tens of thousands. For en a sure antidote if we can find it. The antidote for catarrh has been found in Brazilian Balm. It destroys the catarrh microbe. It clears the head of foul mucous; it makes the breath and discharges immune (noncontagious); relieves the headache and gradually heals the ulcers, the running sores in the head, thus stopping the dropping into the throat. At the same time the cough, the asthma and bronchitis and sore throat will disappear, also all stomach trouble, caused by constant swallowing of the putrid Catarrh pus. And as your Catarrh disappears all your weakness will change to strength and vitality and you will be like your old self again.

These trial bottles are intended for the adult members of the family so do not send your children.

Brazilian Balm is recommended by Druggists and Physicians, Alike.

TWELVE PAGES.

How did the 45 states vote at their latest elections? To answer this question is to deal with accomplished facts. These figures are permanently on record, whatever the future developments may be. By the apportionment of representatives made by congress under the census of 1900, the total electoral vote in 1904 will be 476. The number necessary to a choice is 239, or 15 more than in the previous decade. In the latest elections, including those of the present month, the following states were carried by the Republicans: California, 10; Colorado, 5; Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 27; Indiana, 15; Iowa, 13; Kansas, 10; Maine, 6; Massachusetts, 16; Michigan, 14; Minnesota, 11; Montana, 3; Nebraska, 8; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 12; New York, 39; North Dakota, 4; Ohio, 23; Oregon, 4; Pennsylvania, 34; South portant feature of our early history. Dakota, 4; Utah, 3; Vermont, 4; Washington, 5; West Virginia, 7; Wisconsin, 18; Wyoming, 3. Total electoral votes in Republican states, 310. At the latest elections the following states went Democratic: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 5; Georgia, 13; Kentucky, 13; Louisiana, 9; Maryland, 8; Mississippi 10; Missouri, 18; Nevada, 3; North Carolina, 12; Rhode Island, 4; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 18; Virginia, 12. Total electoral votes in Democratic states, 166. Republican majority of electoral votes, gauged by the latest elections, 144. To carry the presidential contest next year the Democrats must reverse the figures of the latest state elections to the extent of 73 electoral votes. And this will be an impossibility.

The spectacle of the governor-elect of Ohio hunting through "For Rent" lists and consulting real estate agents to find a suitable dwelling for himself and family during his stay at Columbus is not creditable to the state. Ohio is big and wealthy enough to have an executive mansion like other

The Democratic chairman in Pennylvania with a majority of over 250,-00 against his party is figuring out Democratic gains." If there is any consolation in the results, he should communicate the secret of it to Chairman Salen, of Ohio, who is sadly in need of something of the sort.

The Republican national committee meeting, to be held in Washington December 11, will be of more than ordinary interest. It will decide upon the convention city of 1904 and also upon the national chairmanship.

The ministers of Alliance are trying o solve the problem, "What does the city need most?" The same question applied to East Liverpool would unloubtedly lead to such a variety of answers as to be bewildering.

Colombia's outrageous plans of brigandage have placed her without the pale of sympathy for the loss of Panama and have diverted to the new liliputian republic the well wishes of practically all nations.

How did the 45 states vote at their latest elections? To answer this question is to deal with accomplished facts. These figures are permanently on record, whatever the future developments may be. By the apportionment of representatives made by congress under the census of 1900, the total electoral vote in 1904 will be 476. The number necessary to a choice is 239, or 15 more than in the previous decade. In the latest elections, including those of the present month, the following states were carried by the Republicans: California, 10; Colorado, 5; Connecticut, 7; Delaware, 3; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 27; Indiana, 15; Iowa, 13; Kansas, 10; Maine, 6; Massachusetts, 16; Michigan, 14; Minnesota, 11; Montana, 3; Nebraska, 8; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 12; New York, 39; North Dakota, 4; Ohio, 23; Oregon, 4; Pennsylvania, 34; South Dakota, 4; Utah, 3; Vermont, 4; Washington, 5; West Virginia, 7; Wisconsin, 18; Wyoming, 3. Total electoral votes in Republican states, 310. At the latest elections the following states went Democratic: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 5; Georgia, 13; Kentucky, 13; Louisiana, 9; Maryland, 8; Mississippi 10; Missouri, 18; Nevada, 3; North Carolina, 12; Rhode Island, 4; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 18; Virginia, 12. Total electoral votes in Demoeratic states, 166. Republican majority of electoral votes, gauged by the latest elections, 144. To carry the presidential contest next year the Democrats must reverse the figures of the latest state elections to the extent of 73 electoral votes. And this will be an impossibility.

THE HANGARD AT REDSTONE.

Strong Storehouse Built by Captain Trent for Ohio Company.

At the point where the old National pike crosses the Monongahela river on the borders of Fayette and Washington counties, Pa., lies the quaint and historic old town of Brownsville. It is situated hard by the mouth of the | V. Farmer, the senior member of the famous Redstone creek, and is on firm, died recently and the appointground of great historic interest. The ment was made at the request of John was begun in the month of February, the firm. 1754, when Captain Trent, of Virginia acting under the orders of and in the interest of the Ohio company, arrived here and erected a strong storehouse for housing the supplies of this company in connection with its expected as the Hangard, and its history, the story of pioneer days in the Monongahela valley. The Hangard was built of logs laid one upon another and well covered.

Immediately after its erection the Fort Necessity campaign commenced and the Hangard was left tenantless. Conlon de Villiers found it empty and stored his canoes and provisions in and about it, under a guard, while he marched on to battle at Necessity On his return early in July he de stroyed the building before re-embark

SADLY NEEDED

Is An Overhead Bridge at the Eighteenth Street Railroad Crossing.

If ever an overhead bridge was badly needed along the line of the C. & P., that point is at the Eighteenth street crossing, where so many men, women and children daily cross the tracks and where the danger is extreme from the constant passing of shifters and swiftly moving trains east and west. Last week a well known driver of a delivery wagon for a business firm of Wellsville just missed the running down of his team and possible death from a shifter. The noses of the horses were right up against the moving cars before he noticed the rapid approach of the shifter. As he relates, he was scared out of his wits almost, but fortunately a bad accident was averted.

To stand and watch the many little tots that pass over the crossing daily to and from school and on errands for their parents, one is surprised that accidents are not more rare, and it is only by the extreme watchfulness of the watchman stationed there that more are not recorded. With the completion of the new addition to the yards, the danger will become even greater, with the absence of any gates for protection and warning against passing trains. The work of the watchman is most arduous, and he is constantly on the alert to look after the safety of the throng that passes is a deal on with the Marquet Coal company and the American Sewer Pipe company for the purchase of the coal plant by the latter firm. The deal would involve a sum approximating $42.39, claimed due for merchandise $175,000, and would give the American Sewer Pipe company a complete coal plant that they could furnish their own coal. The output of the works is about 20 to 25 cars per day.

All but two of the Mack company' brick plants are shut down, and work will be very scarce here this winter. It is thought that there will not be a brickyard running above the bend in a very short time. Overstock is the cause, with no chance of shipping out through the winter.

HOPPER ACQUITTED

Evidence Did Not Sustain Charges A. S. Cooper Gets a $1,500 Verdict.

The case of West Virginia vs. Fewson Hopper, tried before a jury on a charge preferred by his daughter, was the chief attraction in court at New Cumberland yesterday afternoon. The jury was out only long enough to take a vote, when a verdict of not guilty was rendered, and by all who heard the case it was pronounced a verdict in accordance with the evidence. A goodly number of Chester people were in attendance at court.

The case of A. S. Cooper versus John R. Scott was before the court again and a verdict in favor of the plaintiff was given for $1,500 and costs of the suit. This was a case wherein Cooper sued for $10,000 for defamation of character, claiming that Scott had said things that were detrimental to his good name and that they were not true.

If ever an overhead bridge was badly needed along the line of the C. & P., that point is at the Eighteenth street crossing, where so many men, women and children daily cross the tracks and where the danger is extreme from the constant passing of shifters and swiftly moving trains east and west. Last week a well known driver of a delivery wagon for a business firm of Wellsville just missed the running down of his team and possible death from a shifter. The noses of the horses were right up against the moving cars before he noticed the rapid approach of the shifter.

O'Donnell Made Only Score During the Last Two Minutes of Play.

BEAT WELLSYILLE

The Diamond Tigers, one of the fastest teams of its weight in this section. gave the Wellsville high school deven an unexpected defeat at Contral park, Wellsville, yesterday afternoon, the final score being 6 to 0. The game was hotly contested and interesting throughout. The high school team looked for an easy victory, but seen Admire learned from the play of the Indians that they were to be disappointed. The local team hit the line at will, until near their opponents' goal, when they were held for downs. No score was made in the first half, thelocals having the advantage of keeping the ball in their opponents' territory.

It looked as though no score would be made at all, but with less than two minutes of play remaining O'Donnell went through the tackles for a touchdown. He kicked goal.

The lineups were:

Football Gear,

Pneumatic Head Guards Are a Novelty : Rules Require Harness Changes,

The equipment of a football player for the couring season will not differ materially from that of last year with one exception. It has been believed that many of the injuries received in football were due to the use of heavy protecting armor, particularly the head guards, which had grown so hard and unyielding as to give plenty of cause for this supposition. The rules committee therefore passed a rule that if head protectors were worn they should no longer be made of sole leather, papier mache or other hard and unyielding material, and all other devices for protectors must be so arranged and padded as in the opinion of the umplayers. To conform to this rule a pneumatic head harness has been designed, and it is certainly one of the greatest improvements in the player's equipment. It is made of soft leather, fitting the head closely, and has a pneumatic crown sufficient to afford absolute protection. Ventilation is provided through heavy felt. Many trainers and players from leading college teams have examined this head harness and give it their unqualified approval.

Next in importance to the pneumatic head harness players will welcome the combined leg, knee and shin guard Coach Warner of the Carlisle Indian school and highly indersed by players and trainers who have examined it thoroughly. It will be found in the during the coming season by some of the best players on the gridiron. The old arrangements of separate protectors for each of the parts cov ered by this arrangement was really only a makeshift when compared to the thorough protection which this gives, while the movements are not re tarded in the slightest degree. Heavy wool felt is used in padding the guard both inside and out, and in every particular it is made in exact accordance with decisions of the rules committee Another arrangement for which Mr Warner is also responsible consists et a shoulder guard molded to the form and heavily padded both inside and out with wool felt.

Of course it is by the players on the prominent college teams that the rank and file will naturally be guided in making their selection of equipment for football, and too much care cannot be exercised, particularly this season. in providing for those articles which will not conflict with the recent deci sions of the rules committee, as equip ment not sanctioned by them and worn by a player on the field will disqualify "To provide head harness that will also be in accord with these rul

A KENTUCKY HEROINE.

Uses Ax With Deadly Effect on Onslaught of Murderous Savages. [Copyright 1903 by American Press Associ

The extension of the line of English settlements out into "the dark and bloody ground," as the Indians called Kentucky, gave occasion for many thrilling events. An extraordinary case of heroism on the part of one of the matrons of that section is recorded in contemporary documents. It runs about as follows:

Near what was afterwards known as Newbardstown, one April day in 1788, a number of Indians surrounded the house of one John Merril, which was Letters from discovered by the barking of a dog. Merril stepped to the door to see what he could discover and received threa musket balls, which caused him to fall back into the house with a broken leg and arm. From a prisener who later escaped from the Indians it was learned that the wounded redskin was the only survivor of the party. This account is given almost in the words of the noted Colonel James Perry, who vouched for the entire truthfulness of the narrative, adding with some satisfaction:

"I had the pleasure to assist in tumbling the dead redskins into a hole after they were stripped of their headdresses and about $20 worth of silver furniture."

O'Donnell Made Only Score During the Last Two Minutes of Play.

The Diamond Tigers, one of the fast est teams of its weight in this section, gave the Wellsville high school deven an unexpected defeat at Central park. Wellsville, yesterday afternoon, the final score being 6 to 0. The game was hotly contested and interesting throughout. The high school team looked for an easy victory, but seen learned from the play of the Indians that they were to be disappointed. The local team hit the line at will, until near their opponents' goal, when they were held for downs. No score was made in the first half, thelocals having the advantage of keeping the ball in their opponents' territory.

It looked as though no score would be made at all, but with less than two minutes of play remaining O'Donnel went through the tackles for a touchdown. He kicked goal.

The lineups were:

Pneumatic Head Guards Are a Novelty : Rules Require Harness Changes,

The equipment of a football player for the couring season will not differ materially from that of last year with one exception. It has been believed that many of the injuries received in football were due to the use of heavy protecting armor, particularly the head guards, which had grown so hard and unyielding as to give plenty of cause for this supposition. The rules committee therefore passed a rule that if head protectors were worn they should no longer be made of sole leather, papier mache or other hard and unyielding material, and all other devices for protectors must be so arranged and padded as in the opinion of the umpire to be without danger to other players.

To conform to this rule a pneumatic head harness has been designed, and it is certainly one of the greatest improvements in the player's equipment. It is made of seft leather, fitting the head closely, and has a pneumatic crown sufficient to afford absolute protection. Ventilation is provided through heavy felt. Many trainers and players from leading college teams have examined this head harness and give it their unqualified approval.

Next in importance to the pneumatic head harness players will welcome the combined leg, knee and shin guard made after a model submitted by Coach Warner of the Carlisle Indian school and highly indersed by players and trainers who have examined it thomoughly. It will be found in use during the coming season by some of the best players on the gridiron.

The old arrangements of separate pretectors for each of the parts cay ered by this arrangement was really only a makeshift when compared to the thorough protection which this gives, while the movements are not retarded in the slightest degree. Heavy wool felt is used in padding the guard both inside and out, and in every particular it is made in exact accordance with decisions of the rules committee Another arrangement for which Mr. Warper is also responsible consists of a shoulder guard molded to the form and heavily padded both inside and out with wool felt.

Of course it is by the players on the prominent college teams that the rank and file will naturally be guided in making their selection of equipment for football, and too much care cannot be exercised, particularly this season. in providing for those articles which will not conflict with the recent decisions of the rules committee, as equipment not sanctioned by them and worn by a player on the field will disqualify him. 'To provide head harness that will also be in accord with these rulings, but less expensive than the pneumatic style, two others have been designed. The better of these is made of soft black leather, well padded, while the other is made of brown canvas, well padded. H. B. Confbear, trainer at the University of Chicago, designed a head harness which was very popular last year, and to bring this within the scope of the present rules the crown is now made of soft leather, well padded, thus combining in itself all its former good points with the improvements demanded this season.

A KENTUCKY HEROINE.

Uses Ax With Deadly Effect on On slaught of Murderous Savages.

Copyright 1963 by American Press Associatio The extension of the line of English settlements out into "the dark anbloody ground," as the Indians called Kentucky, gave occasion for many thrilling events. An extraordinary case of heroism on the part of one o the matrons of that section is recorded in contemporary documents. It runs about as follows:

Near what was afterwards known as Newbardstown, one April day in 1788, a number of Indians surrounded the house of one John Merril, which was discovered by the barking of a dog. Merril stepped to the door to see what he could discover and received three musket balls, which caused him to fall back into the house with a broken les and arm. The Indians rushed on to the door, but it being instantly fastened by his wife, who, with a girl about 15 years of age, stood against it. the savages could not immediately enter. They broke one part of the door and one of them crawled partly through. The heroic mether, in the midst of her screaming children and greaning busband, seized an ax and the others, supposing they had gained their end, rushed after him until four of them fell in like manner before they discovered their mistake The rest retreated, but a fresh at tack was made soon after, which brought the brave defenders to their posts. Some of the savages tried to come down the chimney, but one of cals fell headlong down and were killed by Mr. Merril, in spite of his wounds, by pounding out their brains with a billet of wood. The heroic mother stood by the broken door with her ax and wounded one more intruder so that he fled.

This occurred toward evening and all night the brave family watched, the seven dead Indians being piled up in the corner. From a prisoner who later escaped from the Indians it was learned that the wounded redskin was the only survivor of the party. This account is given almost in the words of the noted Colonel James Perry, who vouched for the entire truthfulness of the narrative, adding with some satisfaction:

"I had the pleasure to assist it tumbling the dead redskins into a hole after they were stripped of their head- THE GLEVELAND & BUFFAL dresses and about $20 worth of silver furniture."

Probably the headgear would have been in better condition had not Mrs. Merril been so handy with her ax.

O'Donnell Made Only Score During the Last Two Minutes of Play.

The Diamond Tigers, one of the fastest teams of its weight in this section, gave the Wellsville high school deven an unexpected defeat at Contral park Wellsville, yesterday afternoon, the final score being 6 to 0. The game was hotly contested and interesting throughout. The high school team looked for an easy victory, but seen learned from the play of the Indians that they were to be disappointed. The local team hit the line at will, until near their opponents' goal, when they were held for downs. No score was made in the first half, thelocals having the advantage of keeping the ball in their opponents' territory.

It looked as though no score would he made at all, but with less than two minutes of play remaining O'Donnel went through the tackles for a touchdown. He kicked goal.

The lineups were:

Football Gear,

Pneumatic Head Guards Are a Novelty : Rules Require Harness Changes,

The equipment of a football player for the couring season will not differ materially from that of last year with one exception. It has been believed that many of the injuries received in football were due to the use of heavy protecting armor, particularly the head guards, which had grown so hard and unyielding as to give plenty of cause for this supposition. The rules com mittee therefore passed a rule that if head protectors were worn they should no longer be made of sole leather, papier mache or other hard and unyielding material, and all other devices for padded as in the opinion of the umpire to be without danger to other players.

To comform to this rule a pneumatic head harness has been designed, and it is certainly one of the greatest improvements in the player's equipment. It is made of seft leather, fitting the head closely, and has a gneumatic crown sufficient to afford absolute protection. Ventilation is provided through heavy felt. Many trainers and players from leading college teams have examined this head barness and give it their unqualified approval.

Next in importance to the pneumatic head harness players will welcome the combined leg, knee and shin guard made after a model submitted by Coach Warner of the Carlisle Indian school and highly indersed by players and trainers who have examined it thomoughly. It will be found in use of United States Senator during the coming season by some the best players on the gridiren. The old arrangements of separate protectors for each of the parts covered by this arrangement was really through here on his way home for a only a makeshift when compared to the thorough protection which this gives, while the movements are not retarded in the slightest degree. Heavy wool felt is used in padding the guard both inside and out, and in every partienlar it is made in exact accordance with decisions of the rules committee. Another arrangement for which Mr Warner is also responsible consists of a shoulder guard molded to the form and heavily padded both inside and out with wool felt.

Of course it is by the players on the prominent college teams that the rank and file will naturally be guided in making their selection of equipment for football, and too much care cannot be exercised, particularly this season, in providing for those articles which will not conflict with the recent decisions of the rules committee, as equip ment not sanctioned by them and worn by a player on the field will disqualify To provide head harness that will also be in accord with these rul-

H. B. Confbear, trainer at the University of Chicago, designed a head harness which was very popular last year, and to bring this within the scope of the present rules the crown is now made of soft leather, well padded, pyrographed design and contains a thus combining in itself all its former cushion into which are thrust two hatgood points with the improvements de- pins, one made to represent a niblick manded this season.

The camp ares of the army must have been visible from Fort Pitt. In his journal Bouquet tells us what the heart of Allegheny city was like at that time. He says:

"We marched over a rich level country with stately timber to camp No. 2, a strong piece of ground pleasantly situated with plenty of water and food for cattle.

The following day's journey was, as the colonel records, "nine miles. one-half and fifty-three perches." His engineers must have been quite careful and very methodical in their measurements. This march took them through the famous Logstown, which, by Bouquet's statement, was "seventeen miles, one-half and fifty-seven perches" from Fort Pitt. He takes time to give a good description of this noted town, which we here quote: "This place was noted before the

Whiskey and Beer Habit CHURCH

"ORRINE." A SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS SPECIFIC.

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes. "ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No sanitarium treatment necessary: "ORRINE" can be taken at your own home without publicity. Can be given secretly if desired.

CURE GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

THE COUNTY TREASURER WILL BE IN EAST LIVERPOOL AT THE girls under 14 years of age in its OFFICE OF THE POTTERS' BUILD ING & SAVINGS COMPANY ON WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY. NOVEMBER 18 AND 19, 1903, FOR

WILLIAM THOMPSON, COUNTY TREASURER.

Company Comes to Time. Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.-The strike of messenger boys at the Harvard square office of the Western Union Telegraph company was settled when the company conceded the demands of the boys. This action on the part of the company followed the receipt of a notification from President Eliot, of Harvard, that the girls who took the places of the striking boys would not be allowed to carry messages to the dormitories of students. Most of the business of the office is done with students of the university and a rule of the college forbids women visiting the men's dormitories.

House Wrecked by Gas Explosion. Marion, Ind., Nov. 14 .- An explosion of natural gas wrecked the home of Benjamin Hight and terribly burned the occupants. While firemen were extinguishing the blaze a second explosion occurred and a fireman was hurt. The injured were taken to the hospital. It is thought all will recover with the exception of Claude White. aged 19, of Grand Valley, Pa. White was terribly burned and his condition is critical. With the exception of

Too Many Revolutions.

The New York Outlook tells an amusing story illustrative of the vigilance of the Turkish censorship. There is a strict supervision over telegrams. A German engineer in the Lebanon placed an order with a Paris firm for some sort of a stationary engine, to be shipped to him as soon as possible. The firm telegraphed to inquire how many revolutions a minute he wanted. He answered. "Five hundred revolutions a minute." The next day he was arrested. Brought into court, the judge asked him if he lived in the Lebanon.

He replied that he did. "Do you correspond with such and such a firm in "Yes."

"Ah!" cried the judge. "I know you. You are the man who telegraphed to Paris that there are 500 revolutions a minute in the Lebanon!"

The Quaker's Retort.

In the early days of the White House, retort gave zest to the talk. On one ocher own coin. As Mrs. Madison, looktable, she raised her wine glass to her lips and, bowing to her guests, said gayly. "Here's to thy absent broad orim, Friend Hallowell," to which the Quaker, nothing daunted, said, returning the bow to his hostess, "And here's to thy absent kerchief, Friend Doro-

Locking His Door.

A Philadelphia traveling man was on a business trip through Alabama and one night found himself stranded in a wretched little town with only one slipshod, miserable hotel. His "room" for the night was the end of a hall, with a sheet hung up to screen him from view. In the middle of the night he woke up with his head hanging out over one end of his cot and his feet over the other, while a violent draft was blowing the hanging sheet in all He called for the housekeeper. "What do you want with the housekeeper?" came a voice from somewhere in the darkness. "I want a paper of pins to lock my door with."

WILLIAM THOMPSON, COUNTY TREASURER.

Company Comes to Time. Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.-The strike of messenger boys at the Harvard square office of the Western Union Telegraph company was settled when the company conceded the demands of the boys. This action on the part of the company followed the receipt of a notification from President Eliot, of Harvard, that the girls who took the places of the striking boys would not be allowed to carry messages to the dormitories of students. Most of the business of the office is done with students of the university and a rule of the college forbids women visiting the men's

of natural gas wrecked the home of Benjamin Hight and terribly burned the occupants. While firemen were extinguishing the blaze a second explosion occurred and a fireman was hurt. The injured were taken to the hospital. It is thought all will recover with the exception of Claude White. aged 19, of Grand Valley, Pa. White was terribly burned and his condition is critical. With the exception of White and the fireman, all the injured were members of the Hight family. The explosion lifted the house from its foundations.

Panama Officially Recognized. Washington, Nov. 14. - President Roosevelt formally received M. Philippe Bunau-Varilla, the duly accredited envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Panama to the United States. The reception of the minister marked the birth of the new republic of Panama into the family of nations and paves the way for negotiations between the United States and the infant republic precisely as they may be conducted between any two sovereign nations. Wrecked Vessel Towed to Port. San Francisco, Nov. 14.-The steam collier Edith, with the abandoned steamer Charles Nelson in tow, arrived here. The Charles Nelson was wrecked off Umpqua, on the Oregon coast, by the shifting of her deck load Nov. 5, all on board being saved.

Enforcing Child Labor Law.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 14 .- The first convictions under the new child labor law were had here. The American Cigar company was fined $100 in the city district court for employing two Trenton factory.

ORIENTAL RUGS

A DISPLAY OF RICH AND VALUA-BLE GOODS.

Over $30,000 Worth, Including One Rug Valued at $1,500-Nothing So Fine Ever Seen Here Before.

Arakel H. Bozyan, of New York, arrived in the city this morning for his second annual display of oriental rugs. Mr. Bozyan is an importer of oriental rugs, and since his last visit to this city has increased his stock

Mr. Bozyan is making his headquar ers at the big furniture establishment of Lewis Bros., where he will Quotations Showing How the Market have on display this evening and part of next week rugs the actual value of which is more than $30,000. In the collection there are rugs ranging in of active stocks on the New York price from $3 to $1,500. The oriental Stock Exchange up to 2 p. m. Correctrticle valued at $1,500 is the fines piece of work ever brought to this by the Penn Stock Exchange, Potters' country. It is of pure silk, hand-made National Bank building: and in a single square inch contains 625 knots. It is estimated that a life timeis required to make one of these

All of the finest and most valuable specimens which have made the oriental rug famous are to be found in this collection. No careful housewife who is interested in the artistic per fection of her home can fail to appreciate the display of floor coverings being made by Mr. Bozyan. The gentleman leaves his New York establishment, at 275 Fifth avenue, once a year, and his tour is not a lengthy one, so that the opportunity to see these oriental masterpieces is a rare one, and except for this visit could not be viewed outside the metropolis.

Prepared For the Worst.

Mr. Brown's enemies say that there is nothing else in the world he enjoys so much as finding fault and putting other people in the wrong. When engaged in this pleasing occupation, he loses all hold on a sense of humor, which is none too keen at other times. Not long ago he and his wife were taking a trip through the White mountains, and at one place they were to be called at half past 5 in the morning to take an early train. Mr. Brown wakened first and after a glance at his watch fell back on his pillow with a groan that frightened his wife out of her slumbers.

"Here it is on the tick of half past grumbled Mr. Brown in response to his wife's troubled questions, "and if they don't call us within five minutes we shan't have time enough to get dressed and eat breakfast. But it's no more than I expected."

When the most epigrammatic of the nations gave us a phrase for the diffi- quirements being reasonableness, natculty of making a beginning, it might have supplemented "Ce n'est que le premier pas qui coute" ("It is only the first step that costs") with another phrase to express that it is the last step that costs. To the worker in letters at least the proverb as it stands is foolish.

Any one can begin a story. All around us all the time are beginnings of stories, suggestions of plots. The inexperienced assume that to turn them into good fiction nothing is necessary but a little work in construction. As a consequence there are hidden hoards of unfinished manuscripts in thousands of unsuspected drawers, for the last step costs so painfully that it is never taken, or, if taken, its inadequacy is apparent even to the author.

Perhaps the nation that gave us the proverb does not feel so keenly as we the truth of a possible complementary saying. Ending a story is a simpler matter to them, for the French taste runs to final catastrophe. Their great Victor Hugo and Balzac are alike in leaving us cast down at the last page. Hugo never concluded a novel without a suicide or an execution. Yet the violent tragedies of the romanticist are less depressing than the realist's cold and dreary pessimism. With the French | Edwin. the idea seems to be "any ending so it's read his novel." A dozen years ago a similar occurrence formed the climax of one of the most successful English novels. However, when "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" was published a morbid popular taste for bad endings was at its height. The general public seemed to share a belief that a certain class of minds holds always-that a dismal ending is a merit in itself and is by its nature stronger than a cheerful close. It was at that time the thing to feel on laying down PIGRAMS are always as false a novel that life is a failure, the Cre. as they are true, and proverbs ator, when such a being was allowed are proverbially unreliable. To at all, a monster of injustice and all every proverb there is a com- effort futile and productive only of the

The reaction from this debilitating condition was manifested by the revival of historical and adventure stories, all concluding with good fortune for everybody who deserved it. Since "A rolling stone gathers no moss," the fairly general awakening of the ger judged according to their pleasantness or unpleasantness, the only reuralness. Still the average human mind has a predilection for things that turn out well in books as in life.

It is not the art of composition, but life itself, that is responsible for the difficulty of making a good ending to a story, or, rather, it is the fault of our conception of life. We have not yet learned to distinguish endings in life. We are still apt to mistake even a beginning for an end, and vice versa. Life is full of beginnings, or what we interpret as such, and affords us but one ending. So long as a man is alive any condition may change. The writer, therefore, is forced to make use of apparent or temporary finality unless his story is frankly an episode, which of course has a conclusion of its own.

For working purposes there are broadly four available endings-death, the sole actual ending; the working out of a purpose, whether to achievement or to failure; an unexpected revelation, producing surprise in the reader, and a simple breaking off without specific event when the characters of the principal persons have been rounded out. The last method is applicable only to novels whose aim is character delineation and is, besides, impossible to any but a master. The followers of Howells and James gave it a great vogue, particularly after the success of "Silas Lapham," but it was soon brought into disrepute by those who were merely imitators. Even in the hands of a master the indefinite close is not so agreeable as the definite except to a limited class of readers. When indefiniteness is carried to the extreme of leaving a mystery unsolved, it excites feelings more active than disappointment. There are many books of this kind which leave us with a sense of having been cheated, or at best with a bewilderment as to what really did happen. Hawthorne's indeterminate conclusions have not the artistic reasonableness of Howells' and James', and even the extraordinary beauty of "The Marble Faun" does not atone for the inadequacy of its

On the other hand, a writer must let his story end itself as it will. Considerations of the public taste and even of his own original intention must give way to the demand of the story to end in its own fashion. He may have planned a long and brilliant life for Little Nell, but if the story demands her at his hands he must "kill Little Nell," though afterward he throws himself downward in a passion of re-

The end of a novel must be either a logical outcome, or if, as sometimes happens in life, it is a catastrophe or quite external happening, it must seem in harmony with the plot. Often in life such happenings seem fierce discord, but none the less the harmony is there. Since the writer is not near enough to the divine to comprehend this inherent and organic harmony he must represent it by an external fitness of relation.

It is the task of discovering of this fitness that makes the proper ending of a story so difficult of achievement. [Copyright, 1902, by Lewis D. Sampson.]

Home IN RAFFIA

TOWADAYS the holiday present is not a useless little nothing with "Merry Christmas" daubed all over it, but a useful gift which preserves the name of the giver in the mind. In raffia work, which has been so popular the past year, there are possibilities of many beautiful Christmas presents which will be welcomed with the greatest pleasure, and that is more than can be said about the majority of these offerings. It does not require a great amount of skill to fashion the numerous articles one can make from raffia, but practice and that most necessary of all qualities, patience, are needed. To the uninitiated it may be well to say that raffia, from which this work gets its name, is the outer cuticle of a palm grown in Madagascar and is sent in quantities to this country and used on account of its pliability for bas ketry work. A

RECEPTACLE FOR HOLD number of in ING SCISSORS. struction books have been written about this work, the simplest and most explicit being Mary White's "Basketry." But with the following instructions almost any one will be able to make very pretty Christmas gifts for their friends:

The materials necessary for the be ginner are few and simple. A hank of which will cost a small sum, a pair of good, stout scissors and several flat sticks a yard long, a pair of worsted needles, and you are ready for work.

The first stitch is a simple under and over weaving one. Double weaving is done in the same way except that two weavers are used at once.

Here are directions for making an easy pattern, which is the basis of all more complicated ones: A yard stick is held in the band and worked from left to right at an angle with the body, the end of the stick resting on some firm foundation. A piece of raffia is tied about the stick and knotted and pulled up quite tight. As many stitches as are needed are then knotted down the stick. Leave a small space; then commence with the inner one nearest the person and knot like the first row. This is continued until the proper number of rows are made.

Great care should be exercised in baving the rows perfectly even. With this stitch as a guide others can be worked out and any number of lovely things fashioned.

Of course the artistic woman has the advantage in being able to devise more beautiful color schemes than her less gifted sister. Where native sweet grasses are procurable they will be found quite as satisfactory as the im ported raffia.

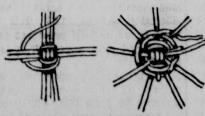

An especially prized Christmas of fering would be a fancy workbasket made by the donor and fitted with dainty accessories.

A sweet grass receptacle for holding a pair of scissors is a nice little re membrance to give the woman who is continually wondering where her scis sors are. It looks like a miniature golf bag or old fashioned bair receiver and may be hung up or carried on the wrist.

A useful holder in which to keep knitting would be an ideal gift for an old lady. The holder is done in plain weaving stitch and is crescent shaped The wide opening allows the needles to be taken out in a comfortable man ner. An inviting pillow for the hammock made of green burlap with a bunch of

HOW TO BEGIN IN RAFFIA WORK wheat tied with red ribbon embroider ed in raffia is an appropriate present for the owner of a country bome. Around the edge of the pillow is a plaited braid of raffia in yellow, red and green tones.

One could go on indefinitely making suggestions for gifts worked out in raffia, but these hints may be useful to the beginner. Certainly the woman who gains a knowledge of the art of raffia will be rewarded for her pains by a number of beautiful Christmas gifts which friends will appreciate.

OWADAYS the holiday present is not a useless little nothing with "Merry Christmas" daubed all over it, but a useful gift which preserves the name of the giver in the mind. In raffia work, which has been so popular the past year, there are possibilities of many beautiful Christmas presents which will be welcomed with the greatest pleasure, and that is more than can be said about the majority of these offerings. It does not require a great amount of skill to fashion the numerous articles one can make from raffia, but practice and that most necessary of all qualities, patience, are needed. To the uninitiated it may be well to say that raffia, from which this work gets its name, is the outer cuticle of a palm grown Madagascar and is sent in quantities to this country and used on account of its pliability for bas ketry work. The first stitch is a simple under and over weaving one. Double weaving is done in the same way except that two weavers are used at once.

Here are directions for making an easy pattern, which is the basis of all the more complicated ones: A yard stick is held in the band and worked from left to right at an angle with the body, the end of the stick resting on some firm foundation. A piece of raffia is tied about the stick and knotted and pulled up quite tight. As many stitches as are needed are then knotted down the stick. IX.—The Step That Costs—The Ending.

"Too many cooks spoil the broth," yet "Two heads are better than one." "A rolling stone gathers no moss," but "The snowball gathers only when it rolls."

When the most epigrammatic of the nations gave us a phrase for the difficulty of making a beginning, it might have supplemented "Ce n'est que le premier pas qui coute" ("It is only the first step that costs") with another phrase to express that it is the last step that costs. To the worker in letters at least the proverb as it stands is foolish,

Any one can begin a story. All around us all the time are beginnings of stories, suggestions of plots. The inexperienced assume that to turn them into good fiction nothing is necessary but a little work in construction. As a consequence there are hidden hoards of unfinished manuscripts in thousands of unsuspected drawers, for the last

Elwell's Dickens and Little Nell.

[Dickens threw himself down in a passion of regret when he killed Little Nell,] step costs so painfully that it is never determinate conclusions have not the taken, or, if taken, its inadequacy is apparent even to the author. Perhaps the nation that gave us the proverb does not feel so keenly as we the truth of a possible complementary saying. Ending a story is a simpler matter to them, for the French taste runs to final catastrophe. Their great Victor Hugo and Balzac are alike in leaving us cast down at the last page. Hugo never concluded a novel without a suicide or an execution. Yet the violent tragedies of the romanticist are less depressing than the realist's cold and dreary pessimism. With the French the idea seems to be "any ending so it's

Fate does a sorry turn to the unfortunate successor to the task when it carries off a great author leaving an unfinished romance. It is not the inferiority of the workman that makes these substitute completions always unsatisfactory, but the extreme difficulty of the undertaking. If it is hard to round out one's own invention, it is far harder to round out another man's. Trollope, who in spite of his remarkable fecundity in composition suffered like the common toiler when the time came to write the end, appeals in "Barchester Towers" to the sympathy of a lament that they permitted only "pleasant endings."

"The end of a novel," he complains, "like the end of a children's dinner party, must be made up of sweetmeats and sugar plums. * * * Leavetakings in novels are as disagreeable as they are in real life, quite as perplexing and elist can impart an interest to the last ises of two children and superhuman happiness are of no avail. * * * When we begin to tint our final pages with couleur de rose, as in accordance with fixed rule we must do, we altogether extinguish our own powers of pleasing. * * * If some critic will write the last fifty pages of a novel [observe in future do my best to copy the ex- recognizes its awful reasonableness. ample. late writer, wishing to sustain his in at the end of the third volume. The consequence was that no one would read his novel."

A dozen years ago a similar occurrence formed the climax of one of the most successful English novels. However, when "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" was published a morbid popular taste for bad endings was at its height. The general public seemed to share a belief that a certain class of minds holds always-that a dismal ending is a merit in itself and is by its nature stronger than a cheerful close. It was at that time the thing to feel on laying down a novel that life is a failure, the Creas they are true, and proverbs ator, when such a being was allowed are proverbially unreliable. To at all, a monster of injustice and all every proverb there is a com- effort futile and productive only of the turn out well in books as in life.

> The reaction from this debilitating condition was manifested by the revival of historical and adventure stories, all concluding with good fortune for everybody who deserved it. Since the fairly general awakening of the artistic conscience endings are no longer judged according to their pleasantness or unpleasantness, the only requirements being reasonableness, naturalness. Still the average human mind has a predilection for things that

It is not the art of composition, but life itself, that is responsible for the difficulty of making a good ending to a story, or, rather, it is the fault of our conception of life. We have not yet learned to distinguish endings in life. We are still apt to mistake even a beginning for an end, and vice versa. Life is full of beginnings, or what we interpret as such, and affords us but one ending. So long as a man is alive any condition may change. The writer, therefore, is forced to make use of apparent or temporary finality unless his story is frankly an episode, which of course has a conclusion of its own. For working purposes there are broadly four available endings-death, the sole actual ending; the working out of a purpose, whether to achievement or to failure; an unexpected revelation, producing surprise in the reader, and a simple breaking off without specific event when the characters of the principal persons have been rounded out. The last method is applicable only

to novels whose aim is character delineation and is, besides, impossible to any but a master. The followers of Howells and James gave it a great vogue, particularly after the success of "Silas Lapham," but it was soon brought into disrepute by those who were merely imitators. Even in the hands of a master the indefinite close is not so agreeable as the definite except to a limited class of readers. When indefiniteness is carried to the extreme of leaving a mystery unsolved, it excites feelings more active than disappointment. There are many books of this kind which leave us with a sense of having been cheated, or at valuable for children and adults. When a sense of having been cheated, or at best with a bewilderment as to what really did happen. Hawthorne's inartistic reasonableness of Howells' and James', and even the extraordinary beauty of "The Marble Faun" does not atone for the inadequacy of its

The child who says, "And what happened then?" after the most conclusive climax within the story teller's ingenuity is expressing a common human instinct. It is probable that the reader most cultivated to the appreciation of the artistry of indefinite endings would in his secret soul enjoy knowing whether or not Angelina marries Edwin.

Over books whose climax is surprise Marjorie Daw" still holds supremacy. Another fine example is Gilbert Parker's very beautiful "When Valmond Came to Pontiac." Among English classics there is a notable instance in "The Fair Maid of Perth," in which the cowardice of Conachas produces a climax of surprise and constitutes the real conclusion.

Under the head "the working out of a purpose" come the majority of all the novels written, all the love fiction with marriage as the purpose, the stories of adventure, which, by the way, have the advantage over other types of narrative in that the ending usualhis readers and includes in his appeal ly suggests itself, and stories on the modern American theme of financial enterprise and struggle with industrial conditions. "Unleavened Bread" suggests itself in this connection as a good example of this second class of ending, weakened by the narrative's going a little too far, passing the climax. Wilkins' book, "The Portion of Labor." Whether death, the simplest ending, is also a good one depends, of course, upon the nature and the treatment of the story. The soul revolts from it in 'Richard Feverel," accepts it, though daily at 8:20 p. m., arriving at Hot with sorrow, in George Eliot's "The Springs at 8 a. m. the following day. the ingenious suggestion of a sufficient | Mill on the Floss," marvels at the art | Elegant new day coaches and Pullman revenge even on critics] in the way and ingenuity of it in "Tommy and they should be written, I, for one, will Grizel," and in "A Tale of Two Cities"

While there was no active interference with the handling of the cars, the crowds that lined the streets jeered and hooted the police and the non-union men almost without inter mission. But two stones were hurled at the cars, one being thrown by a woman, who made her escape in the crowd before the police could reach her, and the other being hurled from the new postoffice building, now being built. Neither did damage worth mentioning.

At nightfall the officials of the street car company were inclined to view the day's work as being successful and on the whole satisfactory. They announced that cars would be run today on the Wentworth avenue line and that attempts would be made to operate other lines, which, however, were not specified.

Firemen Go on Strike.

Shortly after this announcement the situation was complicated for the company by a sudden strike of the firemen employed in all six power houses owned by the company. The firemen's union made an agreement two days ago with the company which was to last for a year. There was a clause in the contract which gave the firemen the discretion to go on a sympathetic strike if the company declined to arbitrate with the employes now on strike. The company explained its attitude on arbitration and said that it had always been willing to arbitrate the question of wages. DUN'S WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Splendid Showing in Agricultural Districts-Low Prices in Iron and Steel Market May Stimulate Activity. Railways Show Increased Earnings.

New York, Nov. 14.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Readjustment of wages and ab normally warm weather are not calculated to stimulate distribution of merchandise, especially wearing apparel and fuel. Several other staple lines are quiet, as is usual at this season, yet the splendid profits of agricullarge sums of money in circulation and provide a market for commodities Prices of all staples were slightly higher on Nov. 1 than a month previous, but in the past two weeks the level has fallen somewhat.

Settlements of labor disputes in meat packing, lithographing and several minor industries are offset by new car lines and coal mines, while the cut in wages of iron workers and spinners may result in strikes. A helpful event was the resumption of work at Montana copper mines, coke ovens and western stock yards. Railway earnings for the first week of November were 4.8 per cent larger than last year.

Several significant events have occured that indicate clearly the situation in the iron and steel industry. While furnace stocks are far in excess of all recent high points, there is some offset in the very small supplies held elsewhere, and now that the quotations have fallen to a more attractive position there is reason to ook for some recovery in demand. After the first shock of new prices was over the market became more active One feature is the loss sustained by jobbers and dealers who had stocks on hand purchased above the new level, but there is more satisfaction expressed than otherwise over the lower figures, since they are calculated to stimulate activity.

Failures this week numbered 283 in the United States, against 241 last year, and 27 in Canada, compared with 24 a year ago.

ference with the handling of the cars, the crowds that lined the streets jeered and hooted the police and the non-union men almost without inter mission. But two stones were hurled at the cars, one being thrown by a woman, who made her escape in the crowd before the police could reach her, and the other being hurled from the new postoffice building, now being built. Neither did damage worth men tioning.

At nightfall the officials of the street car company were inclined to view the day's work as being successful and on the whole satisfactory. They an nounced that cars would be run today on the Wentworth avenue line and that attempts would be made to operate other lines, which, however, were not specified.

Firemen Go on Strike.

Shortly after this announcement the situation was complicated for the company by a sudden strike of the firemer employed in all six power houses

owned by the company. The firemen's union made an agreement two days ago with the company which was to last for a year. There was a clause in the contract which gave the fire men the discretion to go on a sympathetic strike if the company declined to arbitrate with the employes now on strike. The company explained its attitude on arbitration and said that it had always been willing to arbitrate! the question of wages. The officials of the firemen's union declared that they had ordered the strike because the company had declined their offer to mediate between the company and the employes now on strike.

Affairs Getting Rather Complicated for Chicago Street Railway Company.

OTHER UNIONS MAY STOP WORK

General Manager Very Sanguine-Puts Dependence on Police Protection-Little Disorder During Day-Woman Throws a Stone.

Chicago, Nov. 14 .- Twenty-five cars, run on the Wentworth avenue line, without damage to the cars or injury to the non-union employes operating them, was what the Chicago City Railway company was able to accomplish Friday with the assistance of the police department.

While there was no active interference with the handling of the cars the crowds that lined the streets jeered and hooted the police and the non-union men almost without inter mission. But two stones were hurled at the cars, one being thrown by a woman, who made her escape in th crowd before the police could reach her, and the other being hurled from the new postoffice building, now being built. Neither did damage worth men tioning.

At nightfall the officials of the street car company were inclined to view the day's work as being successful and on the whole satisfactory. They announced that cars would be run today on the Wentworth avenue line and that attempts would be made to operate other lines, which, however, were not specified.

Firemen Go on Strike. Shortly after this announcement the situation was complicated for the company by a sudden strike of the firemer employed in all six power houses owned by the company. The fire men's union made an agreement two days ago with the company which was to last for a year. There was a clause in the contract which gave the fire men the discretion to go on a sympathetic strike if the company declined strike. The company explained its at titude on arbitration and said that it had always been willing to arbitrate of the firemen's union declared that they had ordered the strike because $12.50 per month. COSTS MORE TO LIVE.

(Established 1853.)
THE ARCADE, CLEVELAND, O.

Interesting Statistics Gathered by Bureau of Labor.

Washington, Nov. 14.-The bureau of labor issued a bulletin on the cost of living of workingmen's families, showing that of 2,567 families in 33 states from whom data was obtained the average income per family was $827.19; average expenditure for all purposes, $768.54; average expenditure per family for food, $326.90, and the average size of family, 5.31 persons. The last figure is seven-tenths above the average of private families in the whole country as shown by the census of 1900. The food expense is more than 421/2 per cent of the expenditure for all purposes.

An extended investigation covering the years 1890-1902 shows that the cost of food reached its highest in 1902, the average then being 10.9 per cent above the average for the decade 1890-1899, and an increase of 16.1 per cent compared with 1896, the year of lowest prices.

Federation Extends Sympathy. Boston, Nov. 14 .- A mass of resolutions was delivered to the secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and in order that the various committees might consider them the convention was adjourned one hour after the delegates had assembled. The business of the convention was in grave danger of being seriously blocked by the resolutions, which numbered 281. The feature of the brief session was the adoption of a resolution expressing sympathy for the street rallway men of Chicago in their strike, together with the hope that an early settlement might be reached. Secretary Morrison telegraphed the action of the convention to the strikers.

Hanged Before His Time. Union, S. C., Nov. 14.—Brown Rodger, a negro, was hanged for the murder of Rodger Fant, a young white man, last April. The condemned man asked that his execution be carried out ahead of the hour appointed and he was hanged two hours before the time originally set

Aged Citizen Shot Down at His Home by Negro---Dies Instantly.

FATHER OF CREATER NEW YORK

Crime Evidently Premeditated-After Firing Fatal Shots Murderer Replaces Weapon in Pocket and Awaits Arrest-Believed to Be Insane.

New York, Nov. 14 .- Andrew H. Green, the "Father of Greater New York," and one of the city's oldest and most remarkable citizens, was shot and instantly killed on the steps of his home on Park avenue by Cornellus M. Williams, a negro, who is believed to be insane.

The shooting was evidently the outcome of the insane delusion on the part of the negro that Mr. Green had slandered him, for when he was asked why he had committed the murder he replied:

"I did it to save my character." There were three witnesses to the tragedy, Mrs. Anna Bray, a domestic in Mr. Green's family; Emil Michelsen, an errand boy, and Patrick Dyer, a cabman. According to these witnesses the negro must have been waiting for Mr. Green to come home from his office. He was standing in the vestibule of the house, and as Mr Green started to ascend the two steps leading to the hall door Williams advanced toward him. There was a brief interchange of words and then the negro drew a revolver and fired five shots in rapid succession. Mr. Green sank to the stone pavement, blood streaming from his head, while his murderer, returning the revolver to his pocket, leaned against the railing of the stoop as if awaiting arrest.

Death Came Instantly. William H. Burns, carriage starter for the Murray Hill hotel, was one of the first to reach the negro, whom he seized as he was about to wa'k away and turned over to a policeman and a detective, who rushed up a moment later. A physician was on the spot almost immediately and pronounced Mr. Green to be dead. As the negro's aged victim fell a young woman rush ed out of the house and took the dead or dying man's head in her lap, at the same time calling upon him in piteous fones to speak to her. As she tried in vain to get a response Williams turned

"Damn you! I told you I would get even with you.'

upon his victim and shouted:

Mrs. Bray told the police that she was just about to enter the house when she saw Mr. Green accosted by Williams and heard the former say in answer to some words addressed to him by the negro, "Go away, I don't know you." Then Williams drew his revolver and shot the old man.

As soon as the policemen seized the colored man they searched him and found the revolver, which was still warm. They hurried him to the station house, where he was subjected to a searching examination, the result of which left little doubt of the negro's insanity. Besides the revolver the poice found in Williams' pockets a razor. a purse containing $10 and a dispos sess notice, dated Aug. 6, showing that he had been put out of apartments in Fifty-seventh street, between Ninth Your ad in the News Review want and Tenth avenues.

Murderer Tells Rambling Story. Williams apeared to be perfectly time-building business for the wise self-possessed and acted as though ho had performed a meritorious deed. He is a well-built man of average height and of not unpleasant features. He said he was single, 43 years old and lived at 156 West Twenty-sixth street, at which place, however, he is not known.

He told a rambling story about a colored woman, Mrs. Bessie Davis, who until about four months ago kept a lodging house for negroes in West Fifty-third street, who, he said, had circulated statements derogatory to his character and against whom he tendant, and he was forced to give up his membership there because his fel low worshipers pointed the finger of

"I would have been married now only for her," he added bitterly. Continuing, he said he had not been Able to find the woman, who had been spirited away by powerful friends. He blamed Mr. Green for befriending the woman and enabling her to continue

COSTS MORE TO LIVE.

Interesting Statistics Gathered by Bureau of Labor.

Washington, Nov. 14.-The bureau of labor issued a bulletin on the cost of living of workingmen's families, showing that of 2,567 families in 33 states from whom data was obtained the average income per family was $827.19; average expenditure for all purposes, $768.54; average expenditure per family for food, $326.90, and the average size of family, 5.31 persons. The last figure is seven-tenths above the average of private families in the whole country as shown by the census of 1900. The food expense is more than 421/2 per cent of the expenditure for all purposes.

An extended investigation covering the years 1890-1902 shows that the cost of food reached its highest in 1902, the average then being 10.9 per cent above the average for the decade 1890-1899, and an increase of 16.1 per cent compared with 1896, the year of

Federation Extends Sympathy. Boston, Nov. 14 .- A mass of resolutions was delivered to the secretary of the American Federation of Labor and in order that the various commit tees might consider them the convention was adjourned one hour after the delegates had assembled. The business of the convention was in grave danger of being seriously blocked by the resolutions, which numbered 281. The feature of the brief session was the adoption of a resolution expressing sympathy for the street railway men of Chicago in their strike, together with the hope that an early settlement might be reached. Secre tary Morrison telegraphed the action of the convention to the strikers.

BRICHTS DISEASE DIABETES NEWS

San Francisco, Nov. 4, 1903. Will Reed's Pharmacy:

Dear Sirs: -- The discovery in this city of a new diuretic is saving thousands of lives. It is hard for people to believe who are not eye witnesses. You as a brother druggist well know that up to this time chronic Bright's dated back to the year 1895, when he Disease and Diabetes have been necessarily fatal. It is so no longer. And I not only know this by being on the ground, but I was also one of the patients. I had both Bright's Disease and Diabetes and looked upon death as inevitable. I was so prejudiced I wouldn't buy the new treatment. I all his friends. couldn't believe it. So they gave it to me to prove it. I not only recovered, but have since given it to somewhere near fifty patients and know of only three or four failures.

I am a pioneer druggist of this city; have been doing business on my own premises for 48 years, and I now declare to you on the honor of a brother pharmacist the absolute curability of these dread diseases in about ninetenths of all cases. I understand the business men who are placing it before the world have appointed you to from Liberia the Irwin county negroes represent them in your city, and I beg who last February emigrated to that to tell you that there are lives to be country. saved and friends to be made. Yours sincerely,

CARL D. ZEILE. We sent for the Fulton Compounds to which the above refers and now have them in stock. They are the first cures the world has ever seen for chronic Bright's Disease and Diabetes. Free pamphlet.

KILLED BY ASSASSIN

Aged Citizen Shot Down at His Home by Negro --- Dies Instantly.

Crime Evidently Premeditated-After Firing Fatal Shots Murderer Replaces Weapon in Pocket and Awaits Arrest-Believed to Be Insane.

New York, Nov. 14.-Andrew H Green, the "Father of Greater New York," and one of the city's oldest and most remarkable citizens, was shot and instantly killed on the steps of his home on Park avenue by Cornelius M. Williams, a negro, who is believed to be insane.

The shooting was evidently the outcome of the insane delusion on the part of the negro that Mr. Green had slandered him, for when he was asked why he had committed the murder he replied:

"I did it to save my character." There were three witnesses to the tragedy, Mrs. Anna Bray, a domestic in Mr. Green's family; Emil Michelsen, an errand boy, and Patrick Dyer, a cabman. According to these wit nesses the negro must have been wait ing for Mr. Green to come home from his office. He was standing in the vestibule of the house, and as Mr. Green started to ascend the two steps leading to the hall door Williams advanced toward him. There was a brief interchange of words and then the negro drew a revolver and fired five shots in rapid succession. Mr. Green sank to the stone pavement, blood streaming from his head, while his murderer, returning the revolver to his pocket, leaned against the railing of the stoop as if awaiting arrest.

Death Came Instantly. William H. Burns, carriage starter for the Murray Hill hotel, was one of the first to reach the negro, whom he seized as he was about to wa'k away and turned over to a policeman and a detective, who rushed up a moment later. A physician was on the spot almost immediately and pronounced Mr. Green to be dead. As the negro's aged victim fell a young woman rushed out of the house and took the dead or dying man's head in her lap, at the same time calling upon him in piteous fones to speak to her. As she tried in vain to get a response Williams turned apon his victim and shouted: "Damn you! I told you I would get even with you."

Mrs. Bray told the police that she was just about to enter the house when she saw Mr. Green accosted by Williams and heard the former say in answer to some words addressed to him by the negro, "Go away, I don't know you." Then Williams drew his revolver and shot the old man.

As soon as the policemen seized the colored man they searched him and found the revolver, which was still They hurried him to the station house, where he was subjected to a searching examination, the result of which left little doubt of the negro's insanity. Besides the revolver the police found in Williams' pockets a razor, a purse containing $10 and a dispossess notice, dated Aug. 6, showing that he had been put out of apartments in Fifty-seventh street, between Ninth and Tenth avenues. Murderer Tells Rambling Story. Williams apeared to be perfectly time-building business for the wise self-possessed and acted as though he advertisers. had performed a meritorious deed. He is a well-built man of average height and of not unpleasant features. He said he was single, 43 years old and lived at 156 West Twenty-sixth street, at which place, however, he is not

He told a rambling story about a colored woman, Mrs. Bessie Davis, who until about four months ago kept a lodging house for negroes in West circulated statements derogatory to his character and against whom he had been trying to bring suit for $20. 000 for slander. The trouble, he said, was one of her lodgers. Her stories reached the congregation of the Mount Olivet church, of which he was an attendant, and he was forced to give up his membership there because his fel low worshipers pointed the finger of scorn at him. Her slanders, continu ing over eight years, cost him nearly

"I would have been married now only for her," he added bitterly.

Continuing, he said he had not been Able to find the woman, who had been spirited away by powerful friends. He blamed Mr. Green for befriending the woman and enabling her to continue her slanderous stories.
